Homes needed for singles to help prevent homelessness

By Owen Hughes

MORE "common sense" and "joined up policies" are needed to help North Oxfordshire's homeless following a change in legislation.

The Homelessness Reduction Act 2017 came into force last month and increases the number of people eligible for council help.

Mark Chivers set up the Bicester & Oxfordshire Street Smart (BOSS) group seven years ago to collect and distribute donations of clothing and other items to homeless people.

He said the affordable housing crisis, local government and NHS funding cuts has seen spiralling homeless numbers increase "at a shocking rate".

According to BOSS, the Bicester area has around 15 to 20 people struggling with homelessness, with a similar number of 'sofa surfers' relying on short-term accommodation with other people.

Mark pointed the finger at increasing rents and building new homes to suit families rather than single people as reasons for the number of homeless in Bicester.

He said: "As with many local councils, Cherwell District Council looks to fulfil its legal obligations.

"Without the resources to properly fund services, and pay for staff to go out and speak to homeless people and those under the threat of becoming homeless, it is difficult to know how effective CDC is."

Some of the new legislation changes include extending the period during which someone can be considered to be at threat of homelessness from 28 days to 56.

It also requires the council to carry out an assessment and to create a personalised plan in which both the council and the applicant agree a set of actions to end a period of homelessness or the threat of homelessness.

"Even with the council's Choice Based Letting service it is hard for any single person to find social housing if they aren't a pensioner," Mark added.

"While funding will always be a critical issue in tackling homelessness there also needs to be some common sense and joined up policies from all of the authorities concerned."

Cherwell District Council will carry out a review in a year to decide whether it needs to modify its approach.

Cllr John Donaldson, the authority's lead member for housing, said Cherwell is "in a good position to respond" to the new legislation as "it already has a prevention-based approach to homelessness".

He said: "It increases our duty to assist households regardless of priority need or local connection."

Anyone who is homeless or worried about becoming homeless can call the council on 01295 227004.

Celebrating: The award winners enjoy their night and their victories

THE best and brightest of the business community were celebrated at Cherwell Business Awards.

More than 250 guests marked the hard work, success and entrepreneurship of the 24 finalists from across a broad spectrum of the business community at Heythrop Hall on Friday.

The winners of each of the nine categories were presented with glass trophies and certificates after guests enjoyed a threecourse meal and entertainment.

The overall winner on the night was Bicester accountants Whitley Stimpson Ltd.

Turn left at Twitter Lane and you'll find LOL Alley

By George Welch

CONFUSION reigned on the streets of Oxford last week after the city's road signs had an inventive social media-themed makeover.

Residents were able to take a stroll down Hashtag Walk after a mysterious 'artist' placed a series of fake road signs around the city.

Oxford City Council has since removed the signs, first spotted last Tuesday, after saying they made the city difficult to navigate.

About 20 of them were discovered, with the signs seen displayed in streets and alleyways across the city.

The signs were all related to social media and were named the likes of Snapchat End, Facebook Row, Like Square, OMG Crescent and LOL Alley.

Other street names included Whatsapp Lane, Share Passage, Emoji Alley, Tweet Close, Unfollow Way, Facebook Way, Google Walk, Retweet Way, Twitter Lane and Delete Lane.

The 'artist' behind the makeshift signs goes by the name of 'A34'.

The anonymous individual previously claimed responsibility for adding fantasy locations Middle Earth, Gotham City and Narnia to road signs in Didcot earlier this year.

Oxfordshire County Council subsequently removed them because of their distracting nature.

Justifying his most recent work, A34 said he wanted to highlight the public's obsession with social media.

Creating an illusion: Just some of the signs which appeared around the city

He said: "Our relationship with social media is like a modern gothic tale. The social media companies sucking data from us like vampires drinking blood.

"But we have great collective power and can drive a stake through the heart of those corporations, should we fall out of favour with them."

He added: "I created my signs so that they appear fake upon close inspection; however, once they are photographed, they look three dimensional and look unquestionably real. It's an illusion, in the same way that much of social media is an illusion."

A34 denied the prank was disruptive, saying: "I'm not destroying property, I'm not a vandal. I'm just merely somebody who is creating and helping people enjoy art."

However, the city council did not see the funny side and a spokesperson confirmed all the signs have been removed.

Care workers deny all abuse charges

THREE care workers have denied abusing elderly patients they were looking after at a Wallingford care home.

The trio of women, who all worked at Winterbrook Nursing Home, pleaded not guilty to all 18 counts alleging neglect and ill treatment of six people.

Elizabeth Collins, 61, of Kynaston Road, Didcot, denied three counts of ill treatment/wilful neglect of an individual and six counts of breaching a care provider's duty of care resulting in ill treatment/neglect of an individual.

Mary Craddock, 59, of Egerton Road, Wallingford, denied five counts of ill treatment/wilful neglect of an individual.

Joan Lovell, 63, of St Leonard's Lane, Wallingford, denied two counts of ill treatment/wilful neglect of an individual and of breaching a care provider's duty of care resulting in ill treatment/neglect of an individual.

The charges relate to incidents between April 2015 and July 2017.

They all appeared at Oxford Crown Court on Friday. They were released on bail ahead of their trial at the same court on October 8.

Boy, 10, threatened

A 10-year-old boy was threatened with a knife in Banbury after he refused to hand over a phone.

He was with three other boys when he was approached by four older boys, aged 12 to 13, in Princess Diana Park on May 5.

One asked the 10-year-old to hand over his phone and pulled out a knife when he refused at around 8.30pm to 9pm. No one was injured.

Murder trial hears evidence 'disposed of'

EVIDENCE in the case of an Oxford man who died of his injuries after being "savagely attacked" was deliberately disposed of to hinder police investigations.

Christopher Lemonius, 27, died on June 1 last year after sustaining more than 80 injuries following an attack in Jourdain Road, Blackbird Leys.

The personal belongings of six men who deny murder and four others who deny perverting the course of justice had never been found, prosecution barrister Stuart Trimmer QC told Oxford Crown Court.

The jury heard that Mr Lemonius was "savagely attacked" by a gang and that clothing worn by the defendants, which was seen on a Premier store's CCTV, could not be found.

Mr Trimmer said clothes and some mobile phones were disposed of in an active plan to pervert the course of justice.

CCTV coordinator Det Con Deborah North of Thames Valley Police said 81 CCTV exhibits had been seen by investigating officers.

Those charged with murder include: Yousef Koudoua, 27, of Balfour Road, Yasine Lamzini, 19, of Jourdain Road, Rashaun Stoute, 23, of Church Cowley Road, Connor Woodward, 24, of Haldene Road, Otman Lamzini, 24, of Jourdain Road and Carlos Spencer, 26, of Wynbush Road.

The trial continues.

Calls for councillor to resign over 'hateful' posts

AN Oxford City councillor who shared posts on Facebook comparing Israel to Nazi Germany and claiming cancer doesn't exist has resigned the Labour whip.

Cllr Ben Lloyd-Shogbesan shared "extremely disappointing" and "hateful" material on his personal Facebook page deemed "anti-gay and anti-Semitic" by rival councillors.

Cllr Lloyd-Shogbesan has deleted his Facebook profile and said he was "very sorry for any offence".

Posts shared on the Labour councillor's page compared Israel to Nazi Germany, praised Colonel Gaddafi and alluded to same sex marriage as "endorsed perversion".

Last week, Cllr Lloyd-Shogbesan released a statement saying: "These posts do not reflect my views now and I apologise for having disseminated them and implicitly endorsed them."

The Labour party has been dogged by claims of anti-Semitism in recent months, with Labour's Oxford City Council leader Cllr Susan Brown calling the posts

"extremely disappointing".

She added: "Anti-Semitism or any form of discrimination has absolutely no place in the party."

Green Cllr Craig Simmons called for the Labour councillor's resignation over the "hateful" and "anti-gay and anti-Semitic" posts.

Conservative Oxford Association deputy chairman Mark Bhagwandin slammed the councillor's "suitability to represent Oxford's residents".

Cllr Lloyd-Shogbesan will keep his seat in Lye Valley but as an independent.

Getting the blues for good cause

By George Welch

WITNEY will be full of colour next week when more than 300 businesses help turn the town blue.

Action group Witney Dementia Action Alliance is encouraging residents to unite against the disease during Dementia Awareness Week, which runs from Monday to Sunday.

The group hopes a variety of events throughout the week will encourage people in the area to help make Witney a more dementia-friendly community.

This year's theme, Facing Dementia Together, focuses on the actions that people can take to help improve the lives of people living with dementia.

Alliance secretary Linda Johnston said: "Our brilliant local shop owners, emergency care and rescue services and our larger high street brands and businesses never fail to help us to raise awareness about the impact of dementia by their actions.

Going blue: From phone repairs to teddy bears - businesses supporting last year's Dementia Awareness Week

"The most recognisable of which is to turn their high street window displays blue to promote our weeklong programme of dementia-friendly

"Underpinning it all is their united vision with us, of a truly dementiafriendly community where people living with dementia and their families feel equally valued and understood, and can continue to take advantage of all that Witney has to offer for as long as possible."

More than 200 shops and businesses turned blue last year to support the alliance's efforts to raise awareness about dementia, a condition which 850,000 people in the UK are living

For 2018, the team is aiming to increase the shops to more than 320.

Members of the alliance will encourage people to become dementia friends during the course of the week.

The Dementia Friends scheme. launched in February 2013 by the Alzheimer's Society, aims to help people understand what it might be like to live with dementia and turn that understanding into action.

Dementia Friends champion Suzi Morgan said: "We now know that one in three people born in 2018 will go on to develop dementia in their lifetime so every action we take matters."

Visit facebook.com/WitneyDAA for more information and a full programme of events.

The incident happened at about 10.50am on Wednesday last week.

Officers want to speak to the man pictured who might have 'vital' information about the alleged sexual assault.

Call police on 101 quoting reference 43180139361 with information.

Councillor leaves

AN election could be held to fill an empty seat on Witney Town Council.

The notice of an election to find a representative for Witney North ward was published on Monday.

The departure of Carol Reynolds, who left the council for work-related reasons, has created the vacancy.

If more than one person is nominated for the role the election will be held on Thursday, June 21.

Visit tinyurl.com/yd5g3c4e for the full notice of election.

Celebrating new youth club

MORE than 12 years of dedicated fundraising has paid off with the opening of a purpose-built youth club in Woodstock.

The Woodstock Youth Centre committee held a grand opening event to thank all those who have contributed to the state-of-the-art clubhouse.

The project, which has helped replace the dilapidated building in Recreation Road, cost £310,000 and was officially opened by the Duke of Marlborough.

He said: "This is a wonderful example of a community working together for the young people of Woodstock and surrounding villages and I would like to add my gratitude to all those involved in making it happen."

Staff are looking forward to welcoming members old and new to enjoy facilities including games, computer and art rooms. It also includes a kitchen and café.

Jane Hibberd, vice-chairman and youth leader at the centre, said she is 'relieved and extremely happy' the building is now ready.

"It is everything I hoped for and more," she added.

MP quizzes PM over need to improve congestion on A40

By George Welch

THERESA May has weighed in on the future of the heavily congested A40, describing the problematic road as an 'important issue'.

Witney MP Robert Courts quizzed Mrs May during Prime Minister's Questions in the House of Commons last week.

Describing the road, which winds through his west Oxfordshire constituency, he demanded improvements to it.

The Conservative said: "Congestion on the A40 in west Oxfordshire is a blight for residents, with developments including the [2,200-home] Cotswold Garden Village set to increase demand.

"Will the Prime Minister work with me to ensure upgrades to the A40, to buses, and to the Cotswold railway line to ensure we have an integrated transport structure to keep west Oxfordshire moving?"

Mrs May responded: "This is an important issue he is raising on behalf of his constituents and I recognise he is absolutely right to do so and how important it is to them.

Blight: Robert Courts MP spoke at Prime Minister's Questions Picture: parliamentlive.tv

"At the budget we did announce money, £1.7bn, for the Transforming Cities Fund to deliver transport infrastructure for future.

"But we also ensured local authorities are able to bid for over £1bn of discounted lending to support highvalue infrastructure projects.

"That's about giving power back to local people and recognising the importance of infrastructure of the sort he has recognised.

"He has raised some specific issues though, and I know the transport minister would be happy to discuss them with him."

Mr Courts said afterwards he was pleased the PM agreed that all aspects of transport need to work together to keep west Oxfordshire moving.

He added: "I'll keep on taking this matter right to the heart of government to make absolutely clear how important this issue is for our area."

The government announced in March that a bid for £135m in A40 improvement cash had advanced to the next phase.

Funds would be used to create a dual carriageway from Witney to Eynsham, where there will be a new park and ride connected to Oxford, with priority bus lanes.

Mr Courts described this as the 'biggest step forward in decades' towards finding a 'final fix' for the Garden grows

AN environmental group will celebrate the bedding-in of a garden it helped flourish at Hook Norton Primary School.

Incredible Edible Hooky set up a garden club at the school in September and, with the help of community donations, the garden boasts a greenhouse and a bark area with eight raised beds, cold frames and fruit area.

A garden party will be hosted at the school on June 23.

The garden club has expanded from 10 children and two volunteers in the first term to four volunteers and 24 pupils in the second.

Chipping Norton mayor and former rural studies teacher Don Davidson will visit the garden on June 14.

Incredible Edible Hooky grows vegetables, fruit and herbs around the village so the community can share for free.

Award for estate

CHIPPING Norton's historic Great Tew Estate added another accolade at the RICS Awards South East.

The Great Tew Estate Office beat Southampton Harbour Hotel & Spa and St Michaels Court in Ashtead to the top spot in the Commercial category at the property awards at the Kassam Stadium on May 9.

Regional winners now progress to November's grand final in London.

Seatbelts helped save lives in crash

FOUR people sustained minor injuries in a three-vehicle crash near Eynsham last week.

Firefighters credited seatbelts for saving lives after last Monday's smash which caused part of the A40 to close in both directions.

All three emergency services dealt with the crash and there were long tailbacks at either side of the closure, which stretched from the B4449 roundabout, near BP garage, to the turning for Barnard Gate.

Pictures released Oxfordshire Fire and Rescue show the crumpled bonnet of a black car and debris strewn across the road.

A spokesman for South Central Ambulance Service said the crash happened near The Evenlode pub.

They confirmed three patients were treated and discharged at the scene with minor injuries and another was taken to the John Radcliffe Hospital with a wrist

Accident: Four people were injured in the crash near Eynsham last week injury

Andy Ford, a fire service station manager and road safety officer, said: "There were a number of occupants in the three vehicles who were slightly injured in the collision and they were helped by South Central Ambulance Service.

"Everyone involved were wearing their seatbelts which definitely prevented any serious injuries.

"I would remind everyone to ensure all occupants wear a seatbelt, they save lives and prevent serious injury."

Spotting the strange feel of the currency and unusual design of the Queen's head, the sales assistant refused the note and snapped a mobile photograph of Trueman.

She notified security who reviewed CCTV footage showing Trueman visiting a crepe stall with another £20.

Trueman was arrested and denied knowing the notes were

A number of the notes had identical serial numbers on them.

He initially denied a count of possessing counterfeit currency with intent and another of attempting to pass the currency as genuine.

Trueman eventually pled guilty ahead of his trial and was sentenced at Oxford Crown Court on May 8.

Vanessa Halai urged the court for leniency given her client's mother's ill health and Trueman's role as carer, but Judge Ian Pringle QC said the offence was so grave he had no option but to put Trueman behind bars. He was jailed for 10 months.

New nurse urges others to help Sobell

AN Oxford hospice has launched a recruitment drive after staff shortages forced it to close a third of its beds.

Sobell House says it is losing the battle with the demands of an ageing population and has closed six of its 18 beds due to a lack of nurses to look after patients.

The Headington hospice is in the middle of a major service expansion to meet the needs of its users – but it has not escaped the recruitment crisis across the health sector.

Ward sister Rochelle Lay said the immediate goal is to reopen the beds.

Longer term, she added: "With an ageing population, there are increasingly more people who will benefit from palliative care – we need to ensure there is a sufficient number of specialist staff who can provide that level of complex care."

Hospice nurses look after patients in the day centre, on the ward, in home and in hospitals.

Nurse Elizabeth Mortimore, who joined Sobell in January following a career change from graphic design, urged more nurses to apply for positions at Sobell.

The 30-year-old, who looks after four patients each shift, said: "My office job didn't meet my need to care for people, so I retrained as a nurse and I have never looked back. The care delivered at Sobell House is unified by excellence.

"You are surrounded by people who are all passionate about the same thing – giving the best quality of care to patients approaching the end of their lives."

HUNDREDS of classic cars and bikes delighted revellers at Sunday's Wallingford Vehicle Rally and Parade.

Car buffs were dazzled - not only by the bright spring sun - but by the array of vehicles that meandered through the market town and parked up on the Kinecroft.

Ferraris, Lamborghinis, retro Minis - and even campervans and a boat - were ogled at by motoring buffs in the 15th running of the rally.

Tickets for the parade sold out within an hour when they went on sale in February.

There were also 10 golden tickets which allowed the lucky winners to be in the parade just behind the leading vehicle carrying the mayor of Wallingford.

A statement on the group's Twitter page read afterwards: "We would like to thank everyone for supporting the event, donating so generously and helping out in so many ways."

Man invented two fake IDs to avoid a £100 fine

By Owen Hughes

A NORTH Oxfordshire man has been jailed for 12 months after his web of lies to get out of a speeding fine led to an Interpol investigation.

Christopher Henry, 52, of Church Road in Weston-on-the-Green near Bicester, was branded a 'fantasist' akin to 'Walter Mitty' by the judge during his sentencing at Winchester Crown Court on May 9.

Henry was driving his ex-wife's Freelander when he was caught speeding by a mobile camera van on the A343 in Hampshire in February

Rather than accept a £100 fine and three points, Henry embarked on an extraordinary trail of deceit.

He intercepted the speeding ticket in his ex-wife's post where the Freelander was registered and completed the paperwork in her name claiming a French man, living at his address, was the driver and new Paperwork was sent to the fictional French national before being promptly returned to police claiming a man on the Isle of Lewis called George Harris was actually the driver.

Officers found no record of either man and contacted Interpol who found the name given was that of a wax museum in Paris and the address was a nearby hotel.

They then spoke to the Isle of Lewis post mistress who knew nothing of a Mr Harris, Mr Musee or Christopher Henry.

Investigations found fingerprints on the original paperwork belonging to Henry and not his ex-wife.

The Frenchman's name had also been given to Avon and Somerset Police when an Audi TT registered to Henry was caught speeding in August 2016.

Police retrieved voice recordings of him calling the AA out on to two separate occasions when he broke down in the Freelander despite denying he had any access to the vehicle.

Henry also provided false dates of sale to DVLA, set up false email accounts and doctored emails from insurers in a bid to cover his tracks.

The jury took 40 minutes to find him guilty of all three counts of perverting the course of justice.

Henry appealed his £800 fine and six points but the case was upheld doubling the fine to £1,600 and he was disqualified for three months.

Two pensioners die after bank holiday crash

TWO pensioners have died following a bank holiday weekend crash.

Police are appealing for information after the accident on May 6 between a grey Peugeot 3008 and a silver Skoda Octavia.

A passenger in the Peugeot, Shirley Crapper, in her seventies from Swindon, was treated by paramedics but died at the scene. The driver of the Skoda Octavia, also a woman in her seventies, has since died.

It is the second fatal crash on the A420 in the village of Tubney, near Marcham, in the space of two months.

A 51-year-old woman died on the same stretch of road on March 22 after a lorry suffered a tyre blowout and lost control.

Officers have asked for witnesses and dash cam footage of the latest crash.

Treatment delays lead to deaths

By Owen Hughes

ABUSE and delays in treatment led to the deaths of one in eight people with learning difficulties an NHS England review has found.

Between July 1, 2016 and November 30, 2017, a total of 1,311 deaths were notified to the Learning Disability Mortality Review programme.

The review indicated that in 13 per cent of the 103 completed reviews of deaths of people with learning disabilities, the person's health had been adversely affected by the care provider.

Delays in care or treatment, gaps in service provision, organisational dysfunction, or neglect or abuse were recognised as contributing to the deaths of 13 people according to the Learning Disability Mortality Review.

After the "preventable" death of Oxford teenager Connor Sparrowhawk in 2013, and the death of Teresa Colvin, from Hampshire, Southern Health NHS Foundation Trust admitted breaching health and safety law and was fined £2million.

Connor, known as Laughing Boy, was 18 years old when he suffered an epileptic seizure and drowned in a bath after being left alone at Southern Health's Slade House, Headington.

A family statement released on the #JusticeforLB campaign website after the verdict at Oxford Crown Court in March said: "Families should not have to find for answers and accountability."

Players take a Vegas gamble

OXFORD pub poker players laid their cards on the table after winning a trip of a lifetime to the US for the chance to be crowned UK Pub Poker Champion.

John Hudgell, left, of the Qzone on Grenoble Road, and Tim Osborn, right, of the New Club on Blenheim Lane, will fly to the bright lights of Las Vegas on May 24 hoping to win a slice of the £25,000 prize pool.

The two poker stars will represent Oxford in the City of Lights after qualifying from the UK's largest live pub poker league, VEGAS100, now in its 12th year.

VEGAS100, organised by Redtooth Poker, takes in more than 1,000 venues and has in excess of 200,000 registered players.

Martin Green, managing director of Redtooth Poker, said: "We are delighted to finally secure our 100 players for the trip to Las Vegas.

"These are the best pub poker players in the UK so they fully deserve this once in a lifetime trip to America."

Thousands preparing to join scouts but volunteers needed

By George Welch

A RECORD number of people are signing up to join the Oxfordshire Scouts, with more than a thousand wannabe members stuck on the organisation's waiting list.

The number who are part of county groups increased by nearly 200 over the last year, according to latest annual membership figures released this month.

In total there are 2,520 adults and 6,976 young people now part of the Oxfordshire groups.

The annual membership census also highlighted that there are 1,124 young people waiting to join - but more than 150 new volunteers are needed to cater for the demand.

Phil Earl, lead volunteer for Oxfordshire Scouting, said: "I am proud to see that we continue to achieve such strong growth for Scouting in the county.

"Providing our unique programme of adventure and skills for life to more young people is a huge achievement.

"Much of this is down to our amazing volunteers. As one of the county's leading youth charities, we're acutely aware of the importance of all the volunteers in Oxfordshire who give up their time every single week to help others."

Growing movement: Oxfordshire Scouts County Camp at Blenheim Palace last year and inset, Phil Earl, lead volunteer

The national adventure group has seen an overall increase for the 13th consecutive year with 10,699 new youth members and 9,371 adult volunteers joining in the last 12 months.

The news comes after the Scout Association revealed the results of a survey showing the positive impact volunteering can have on mental wellbeing for those involved.

A YouGov poll found the majority reported having improved life satisfaction and self-esteem since beginning volunteer work, as well as having reduced feelings of loneliness and stress.

Mr Earl said: "With the majority of volunteers saying they feel more motivated, confident and more skilled as a result of the work they do with us, it's not just the young people they are working with that they're benefitting."

But Mr Earl said he is 'concerned' businesses are not doing all they can to better support employees who volunteer outside of work.

He added: "With known benefits to workers' productivity, confidence and the extra skills they are gaining - being more flexible clearly benefits employers as well as their staff."

Tributes paid to Oxford teacher

TRIBUTES have been paid to a "passionate and skilled" University of Oxford teacher and father of three who died on the M40 last month.

Tsering Dhundup Gonkatsang, 66, known popularly by the nickname Genla, which is Tibetan for respected teacher, died after a collision on the M40 on April 27.

The father-of-three was taken to Wexham Park Hospital, Slough, where he later died.

His family said: "Genla will be remembered as a devoted husband. a loving father and grandfather; a thoroughly professional, yet kind, helpful, humble and patient colleague; a passionate and skilled teacher; and a local and dependable friend with a great sense of humour."

Mr Gonkatsang was the first Tibetan language instructor in the Oriental Institute at the University of Oxford and worked there since 2001.

Toddlers are real Little Troopers up Snowdon

By George Welch

A TENACIOUS toddler led by example as he and his RAF dad battled soaring temperatures to conquer Mount Snowdon.

Air Force Sergeant Jon Burt-Matthews, based at RAF Benson near Wallingford, took on the nine-mile walk earlier this month, with threevear-old son Harry.

The pair were part of a group of 70 – including 18 children – attempting to climb 975 metres to the peak of Wales' tallest mountain and raise money for military charity Little Troopers.

Harry, who made friends with threeyear-old Poppy, managed to walk a great deal of the route without being carried by his air traffic controller dad.

Jon said: "The trek was an amazing opportunity for children and adults alike to make friends with others sharing a common bond.

"Harry and his friend Poppy were two of the youngest walkers in the group and did everyone proud.

"They virtually jogged up over a third of the mountain, including some of the steepest sections, under their own steam.

"They had smiles on their faces the entire time and were buoyed on by frequent train sightings and children's songs."

Jon and Harry have so far raised £450 towards their £500 target for Little Troopers.

Little Troopers is the first triservice charity providing support to children with a serving parent. It began with a sponsored climb of Mount Snowdon in 2011.

The event has been replicated every other year and become an important fundraiser.

Sponsorship funds initiatives such as a storytelling app, school resource packs and a summer camp for military families.

Founder Louise Fetigan said she is

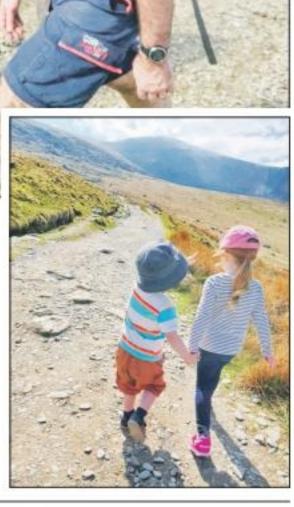

Achievement and pride: Flight Sergeant Matt Lingham with daughter Poppy and Sergeant Jon Burt-Matthews with Harry on their way up Mount Snowdon

'so grateful' to Jon and Harry.

"Seeing such young children conquer the mighty Mount Snowdon was just amazing," she said.

"It was a really special weekend, full of achievement and pride."

Grandad's wooden cast will help with research

By George Welch

A GRANDFATHER who wore an environmentally friendly wooden cast as part of an NHS study after breaking his wrist has urged others to participate in research to help 'move things on'.

Charles Bee, from Charlbury, took part in a study comparing two casts after falling off a chair and breaking his wrist in September last year.

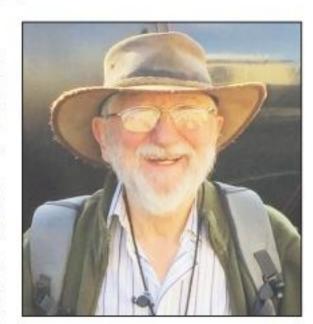

The 72-year-old was one of the first John Radcliffe Hospital patients to wear an eco-friendly wooden cast instead of the traditional rigid and non-biodegradable fibreglass cast.

NHS researchers believe the Woodcast, which can be removed and remoulded when heated up, has patient comfort and environmental cost benefits.

Charles, a grandfather-of-five, was standing on a chair and attempting to put out an oil lamp in his west Oxfordshire home when he fell and broke his wrist.

He said: "I fell off a chair which I shouldn't have been standing on in the first place. One or two people told me I must have been inebriated, but I just fell off the chair, end of story."

Charles visited his GP and A&E at

Patient trial: Charles Bee was given a wooden cast after he broke his arm

Witney Community Hospital before being offered the chance to take part in the Oxford-based trial.

"What made me want to take part in the trial, one pure and simple reason, was everybody should put themselves forward for us to move things on," he said.

Patients completed weekly online questionnaires until cast removal and again three months after injury to see how well they recover.

Charles said he benefited from having the wooden cast, as the study team were able to split it along the middle so it could be removed in case of airport security checks.

He visited stepson Nicholas Smith in China three weeks after his injury, followed by a trip to see his daughter Alyson Bee in Australia.

Charles said: "It was quite comfortable. It solved a problem. The major help for me was it was light and I was able to remove it as I travelled."

Contact your doctor about research opportunities. Visit ukctg.nihr.ac.uk for trials seeking volunteers.

An open day on research opportunities in Oxford will be held on Tuesday next week at the Warneford Hospital.

Inside track on music industry

ASPIRING musicians college collaborated with a specialising in the creative industries to fine tune their sound.

Students from the City of Oxford College visited SAE Oxford's stateof-the-art facilities in Littlemore to record tracks for their EPs.

They were able to broaden their experience by using industrystandard equipment and facilities to record in a professional setting.

The sessions also contribute to their coursework.

The EPs will be promoted extensively via social media and performed at a final major project event at the O2 Academy in Cowley Road over two nights on May 21 and 22.

Nick Reiber Hodgson, music lecturer at City of Oxford College, said the opportunity provided students with an 'invaluable' experience of recording in a live lounge setting.

Second year student Ollie Rodgers is a member of indie rock band Eunoia.

He said: "Recording at SAE Institute in Oxford was an amazing experience. It gave a real insight into the recording processes, which ran seamlessly and without fault.

"Overall, a stellar performance and opportunity from SAE with outstanding facilities and staff supplying us with a backbone for our upcoming EP for Eunoia."

SAE, which offers degrees and short courses in audio, film, the music business and web development, will host an assessed gig for first year music students on May 24.

Pets' gift for royal couple

A MENAGERIE of homeless pets in Burford has given a rather unique royal wedding gift that's not to be sniffed at.

The Blue Cross Pet Choir banded together to record a rough rendition of Here Comes The Bride as the charity's gift to Prince Harry and Meghan Markle ahead of this weekend's wedding.

Dozens of homeless pets at Blue Cross Burford, including a beagle pup named Marley and Tootles the kitten, performed on the track.

A chorus of dogs, cats, horses and rabbits in need of new homes barked, meowed, neighed and nibbled their way through the 37-second performance.

Jenna Martyn, Blue Cross

Burford centre manager, said:
"We know that Meghan Markle is a huge fan of rescue pets and the fantastic support she provides for animals is something we want to celebrate.

"To say congratulations to the royal couple on their wedding day, our homeless pets have given something special, they've given a gift of song with this rendition of Here Comes The Bride.

"Each pet seen and heard is desperately looking for their new family and we hope this loving wedding season will help them sing their way into loving new homes."

The track can be viewed on YouTube at https://youtu.be/ uCDfpBEDIc0

Ram raid at Co-op

RAM raiders struck a Co-op in Carterton and made off with a cash machine in the latest of a series of break-ins at stores in the county including Oxford and Didcot.

Thames Valley Police confirmed the Co-op on Shilton Park, Marigold Square, was ram raided and the cash machine stolen on Tuesday at around 1.30am. It is thought a 'number of male offenders' were involved.

A police helicopter was deployed to look for the vehicle but tweeted it had "slipped the net this time".

Author to give talk

AUTHOR Christina Jones will celebrate the launch of her new book at an event in Abingdon.

The writer, born in Oxford who now lives in the town, will be at Mostly Books on Thursday next week to talk about her novel, Only One Woman – a love story set in the 1960s.

She will be at the Stert Street shop from 7pm. Tickets are £4.

Children's letters to PM

A WALLINGFORD mother fighting for a life-changing drug for her daughter has campaigned for hundreds of children to write to the Prime Minister.

Zoe Bagley's four-year-old daughter Grace, has genetic disorder cystic fibrosis that affects her lungs. It has already led to multiple long-term stays in hospital during her short life.

Campaigners have been battling to get a drug prescribed on the NHS called Orkambi, which could slow the decline in lung function by half in patients with a particular strain of CF.

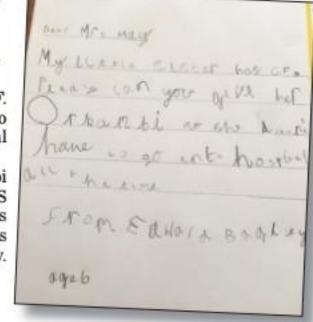

More than 100 children have written letters to Theresa May to ask for Orkambi to be available in the UK.

The letters, organised by the Cystic Fibrosis Trust, will be hand delivered to 10 Downing Street on June 16, among them are letters from Grace's six-year-old brother Edward and his school friends.

He wrote: "My little sister has CF. Please can you give her Orkambi so she doesn't have to go into hospital all the time."

Discussions between Orkambi manufacturers Vertex and NHS England have been slow moving as the organisations negotiate over costs but are due to meet again next Friday.

Pupils promote walking benefit and road safety

TIME is running out for primary schools to get involved with a new road safety project that focuses on giving children the right to walk safely in their communities.

Thousands of children aged four to 11 from across the UK will put their best feet forward next month to promote road safety and the health benefits of walking.

Eight Oxfordshire schools including nearly 1,000 pupils have registered with road safety charity Brake's Kids Walk, previously known as the Giant Walk.

One of those is Mabel Prichard Special School in Oxford. Deputy headteacher Amanda Makoka said: "Pupils want to feel safe when they are out and about in their community.

"We believe by taking part in the kids' walk we will be able to spread the important message to road users and pedestrians."

The short, supervised walks will take place on Wednesday, June 13 at or around schools, with children walking in a crocodile formation and holding hands to promote the importance of kids being able to walk without fear.

Registered schools receive a free action pack full of posters, banners, lesson plans, assembly presentations and activities to help run the event.

For more information and to register visit brake.org.uk/kidswalk

Outdoor fun: Participants had a great time at Wychwood Project's recent whittling day

Children set to go wild at summer camps

YOUNGSTERS are gearing up for a summer camp encompassing nature, key educational skills and fun.

Conservation charity The Wychwood Project is running its Go Wild children's summer camp for eight to 12 year olds at the Ascott-under-Wychwood Conservation Centre in west Oxfordshire.

Organisers said the emphasis of the five-day camp will be on outdoor activities and fun including building wildlife boxes, walks and jam making.

Learning officer Toby Swift said: "The summer holidays are the ideal time to get active outdoors and we are hoping to offer youngsters an unforgettable introduction to the natural world they see around them, through a host of activities.

"Ascott-under-Wychwood

Conservation Centre offers us ideal facilities for safe, fun learning, right in the heart of the historic Wychwood Forest area.

"I am really looking forward to what should be a delightful week with lots of young people taking part."

The Go Wild camp will run from August 13-17. Visit wychwoodproject.org.uk for more information and to book.

May picture removed to prevent messages

By George Welch

AN Oxford University picture of Theresa May has been taken down to protect it from student protests.

The picture of the Conservative Prime Minister, part of the university's celebration of women who had studied at the worldrenowned institution, had been 'obscured' by critical messages.

The portrait was plastered with messages about political issues including immigration, the Windrush generation and Brexit.

"We are pleased to announce that the @theresa_may portrait has been removed from @ oxfordgeography!" the Not All Geographers campaign announced last week.

But it was not taken down for the reasons they claimed. In a statement, a university spokesperson said: "The portrait was being obscured by posters bearing various messages, so it was taken down and will be re-displayed so it can be seen as intended."

Justifying its action, Not All Geographers campaign said: "[We] have creatively intervened for geographers everywhere to challenge the installation of a Theresa May portrait in Oxford Geography without consultation of the student body (at least).

"This is unacceptable and

does little to inspire confidence in critical thought."

Universities Minister Sam Gyimah said it was 'utterly ridiculous' that 'even portraits are being no-platformed', adding that the university faculty should 'get a grip' and 'put the portrait back in a more prominent place'.

Mrs May graduated with a second class degree from St Hugh's in 1977.

In a note alongside the picture, Mrs May – who studied there from 1974 to 1977 – said: "I remember the School of Geography as a great place to meet, learn and enjoy finding out more about our world...

"A greater understanding of the diversity and complexity of our world and a respect for our environment, which I learnt in my degree, have stood me in good stead in my chosen career."

But the decision to display Mrs May's photograph was criticised by some students.

DPhil student Andrew Dyer posted on Twitter: "(Not so) Great to see @theresa_may placed alongside Doreen Massey in @ oxfordgeography @UniofOxford, apparently one of the best alumnae we have.

"I don't really wish to celebrate a hostile environment for immigrants, if I'm honest."

Where the portrait has been re-displayed has not been confirmed.

Helping families

THE Midcounties Co-operative in Oxfordshire provided enough food to feed 410 families for three days in the last year.

Employees and shoppers at dozens of stores across the county donated more than 16,400 food items and supplies last year.

Demand for food parcels has risen for the ninth year in a row, the retailer said.

Art helping children to express themselves and develop skills

By George Welch

PAINTING, pottery and sculptures will be among the creations decorating venues across the county this month for Oxfordshire Artweeks 2018.

But there was an extra special piece of artwork proudly on display during the first week of the arts and crafts extravaganza.

Eight terminally ill children from Helen & Douglas House made 12 individually designed nature-inspired pieces of art.

The works of art were hung proudly in the heart of the Cotswolds at a Sculpture at Kingham Lodge event.

Youngster Alex, pictured, was one of those to leave their impression during a recent stay at the East Oxford hospice.

Gemma Radnor, play specialist at the Headington charity, said the artwork helped children express themselves.

She said: "Play is one of the most important parts of childhood, especially for children with a terminal illness. It is an integral part of the holistic care we offer, as it is vital for children's development.

"It allows children to explore their world, process and express their feelings, and develop new skills.

"This can lead to increased confidence and self-esteem, building resilience to the challenges they face. Play can bring simple joy to children, cherished even more by those who are seriously ill."

Sculpture at Kingham Lodge has supported Helen & Douglas House since its launch in 2012 – but this year was the first time terminally ill children have been involved.

Alison Hooker, community fundraiser at Helen & Douglas House, said the hospice is 'so grateful' for Kingham Lodge's support, adding that it was 'really exciting' for the kids to be involved.

Marina Colville, one of the Beneficial: Nurse Hannah helps Alex finger printing wood circles organisers, said: "We have had connections with Helen & Douglas House for many years and were inspired to raise money for them by the amazing stories of parents of children who had been helped by the hospice.

"When we launched Sculpture at Kingham Lodge in 2012 we instinctively knew Helen & Douglas House would be one of our chosen charities."

Held biennially, Sculpture at Kingham Lodge has welcomed thousands of visitors and raised more than £80,000 for charity.

THE OXFORD PAPER

Authors prove they have the write stuff

TALENTED Oxfordshire writers put pen to paper for the fourth annual writing competition as two authors add another chapter to their story.

This year's winners of the Oxfordshire Library Service's Short Story Competition 2018 are Phoebe Haywood, 16, in the young adult category, and Louise Brakespear in the adult category.

The competition showcases the breadth of writers from across the county by making their stories available for any library user to read for free on the library Overdrive eBook service.

Burford resident Phoebe won with her story The Glass is Never Half Full examining approaches to life's difficulties, inspired by a visit to a hotel bar while on holiday.

She said: "I know loads of young writers must have submitted stories of an amazing quality, so I'm very honoured that my story won with all that competition."

It was third time lucky for Henley

Library user Louise who finally won the competition after entering twice previously. Her story A Passing Place tells a moving tale set in the aftermath of World War One.

She said: "I'm absolutely delighted, really thrilled. It's nice to think others have enjoyed the story."

Phoebe and Louise's winning entries can be read on the Oxfordshire Library eBook website at: https://bit.ly/2KMpWMl

Full of Pride in rainbow bus

THE streets of Oxford will become a little brighter with a rainbowcoloured bus celebrating Oxford Pride.

Passengers can keep an eye out for The Oxford Bus Company's eye-catching new bus as it supports diversity and the Oxford Pride group.

Decked out in Pride's rainbow colours the dazzling City bus has been transformed to brighten up Oxford's streets.

Bus 367, which serves Abingdon and other City routes was branded with the new livery and the slogan 'proudly supporting Oxford Pride'.

This year's theme is True Colours, celebrating the diversity of the Oxfordshire community and aiming to raise awareness and inclusivity of all LGBT+ people.

The bus company selected Oxford Pride as one of its 2018 community and charity partners.

Managing director Phil Southall said: "The bus looks fantastic and we are proud to back Oxford Pride.

"One of our core values is embracing diversity and it is this important every day philosophy that inspires us to support organisations like Oxford Pride." Oxford Pride videos have already been shown on 41 buses, reaching an average of 100,000 people per week.

Oxford Pride 2018 takes place between May 25 and June 3 with Pride Day featuring a parade on Saturday, June 2.

Fabulous fest for foodies

By Samantha McGregor

THE magnificent grounds of Blenheim Palace will be transformed into a foodie's paradise over the next bank holiday weekend.

This year's festival will feature more demos, more local producers and more tastings than ever before ensuring tastebuds will be well and truly tickled.

Alongside the fantastic range of food, drink and activities for the whole family to enjoy, there will be guest appearances from Michelinstarred Oxfordshire chef Raymond Blanc and winner of this year's MasterChef, Kenny Tutt.

The Blenheim Palace Food Festival from May 26 to 28 will boast 130 stalls featuring mouthwatering treats from artisan bakers, craft brewers, gin distillers, gourmet burgers, international cuisine, traditional ice cream and handmade sweets.

Last year's event attracted more than 25,000 visitors and organisers are expecting more through the splendid gates this year.

Festival organiser, Jeff Harper from the Fantastic British Food Festivals is really excited about this year's event.

He said: "We've organised fascinating masterclasses with food and drink experts, including one of the world's most respected chefs, Raymond Blanc.

"Masterchef 2018 champion Kenny Tutt is cooking one of his triumphant dishes in the demo tent and is available for a Q&A session.

"Other guests include Great British Bake Off winner Sophie Faldo to share her baking secrets; Emily Watkins, chef proprietor at the award-winning Kingham Plough [near Chipping Norton] and talented Andrew Scott from Sudbury House [Faringdon].

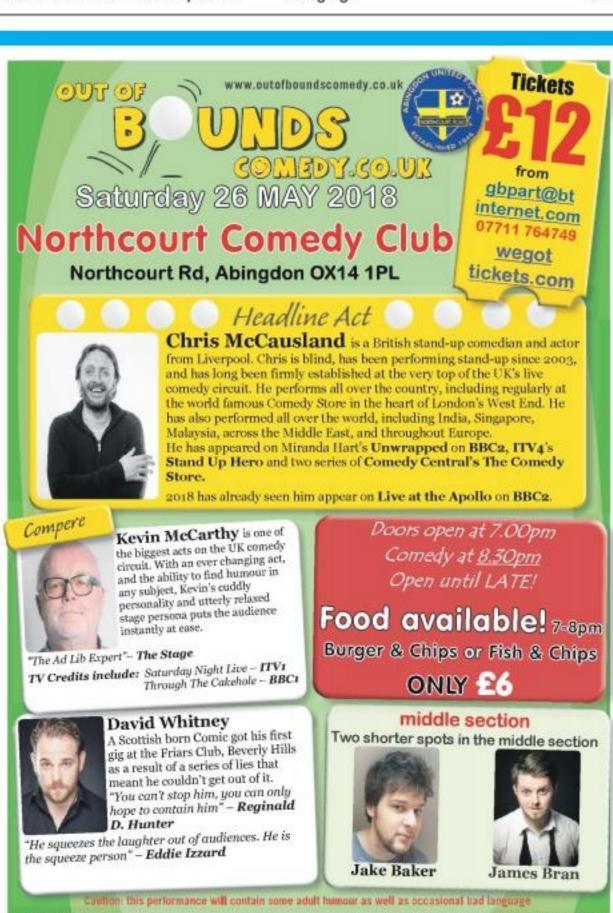

"The Lunch Box Doctor Jenny Tschiesche, is available to offer nutritional advice for children and the incredibly charismatic truffle and mushroom hunter, Melissa Waddingham will discuss fungi foraging!" New for this year in the palace pleasure gardens is the Cheese and Chilli zone showcasing the finest of both available.

And if all that's not enough, entertain the family with strolling musicians and storytellers and then explore the pleasure gardens, maze and adventure playground while the children – and perhaps adults too – run off some of the fabulous food they sampled around the grounds.

To enjoy the festival you will need a Park & Garden ticket or a valid annual pass – adult tickets £13.50, children £6.50, concessions £10.50 or family tickets £37.50.

Superheroes' night's dream

By Samantha McGregor

A "RIOTOUS" reinterpretation of one of Shakespeare's best loved plays, A Midsummer Night's Dream, comes to Oxford this month.

Arguably Shakespeare's most fun play, it is packed full of mischievous fairies, matchmaking gone awry and music aplenty.

But this Lyric Hammersmith and Filter Theatre's production takes it a step further - it also throws in standup comedy, live rock music and superheroes to boot.

A Midsummer Night's Dream takes to the stage at the Oxford Playhouse for a week-long run until Saturday, May 19.

Originally staged in 2012, it was revived by the Lyric in 2016 and has toured across the world, to rave reviews.

The unique and irreverent twist to this classic tale of young lovers and warring fairies makes it the ideal show for Shakespeare novices and die-hard fans and is the perfect introduction to Shakespeare for teenagers.

A Midsummer Night's Dream was written by the Bard in 1595/96, and consists of four interconnecting plots set around the marriage of Theseus, the Duke of Athens, to Hippolyta, the former queen of the Amazons.

Hermia wants to marry Lysander, but her father wants her to marry Demetrius, so the pair plot to elope.

Meanwhile, her friend Helena, who is in love with Demetrius herself, tells him of the lovers' plan to elope in a bid to win his affection.

That night they all set out into the forest just as a group of tradesmen, known as the Mechanicals, are rehearsing a play which they intend to stage to celebrate the king's marriage, and the Fairy King Oberon has sent his servant Puck to find a magic plant that will cast a spell on the Fairy Queen Titania to make her fall in love with the first person she sees. What could possibly go wrong?

Tickets for A Midsummer Night's Dream at Oxford Playhouse start at £10 and are available from the ticket office on 01865 305305 or go to oxfordplayhouse.com

Enjoy a feast of folk music

JUST back from performing in Australia at the National Folk Festival. folk duo Belshazzar's Feast head out on a UK tour, which includes a stop in Oxford.

Comprising Paul Hutchinson, of HooverThe Dog, and Paul Sartin, who worked with Bellowhead and is a current member of Faustus, the duo are now in their 23rd year together celebrating their unique sound of traditional folk music with a touch of classical and jazz, pop, music hall and topping it off with their own brand of wry humour.

They take to the stage at Oxford Folk Club, The White House, tomor-

Paul Hutchinson said: "We're delighted to be making a longawaited return to the wonderful Oxford Folk Club - home from home, as it's one of the first venues to have booked us 20 years ago!

"This will be another chance to see old friends and meet new ones, and to wreak havoc at the Club and at BBC Radio Oxford during the afternoon. I hope Oxford is ready for us."

Belshazzar's Feast received a coveted nomination for the Best Duo Award at the 2010 BBC Folk Awards and are regulars at folk festivals across the summer, as well as touring including a popular annual Christmas tour of seasonal songs and tunes.

For tickets, which cost £8/9, available by calling 01865 768128 or 01865 790106, or view oxfordfolkclub.com

Dance stars of the future

YOUNG stars will have the chance to shine when Central School of Ballet's renowned graduate performing company Ballet Central embarks on its annual nationwide tour.

Under the artistic direction of Christopher Marney, Ballet Central's diverse range of dance and theatre will perform in 20 towns and cities across England and Wales and will be dancing at The Theatre, Chipping Norton on June 2.

This season's repertoire is testament to the distinguished choreographers who support the young dance company: Matthew Bourne of New Adventures provides Fairies Prologue from his gothic-reworking of Sleeping Beauty and, for the first time, Ballet Central will present an excerpt from FAR by multi awardwinning choreographer and director Wayne McGregor.

After the success of last year's Romeo & Juliet, choreographer Jenna Lee returns with her brand new creation Black Swan, a dark twist on the iconic classic.

To follow, and celebrating the life and work of Kenneth MacMillan, there will be an excerpt from MacMillan's rarely-seen 1983 ballet Valley of Shadows inspired by Georgio Bassani's haunting novel The Garden of the Finzi-Continis.

To close the performance, Marney will revive scenes from Christopher Gable's Cinderella on Vine sold out the entire run of this new show at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe, where he has previously won the award for Dave's Funniest Joke Of The Fringe in 2010 and 2014, as well as taking runner-up spots in 2011, 2012 and 2013.

Fresh from his success on BBC Radio 4 with The Tim Vine Chat Show and on BBC One with The Very Silly Tim Vine Travels Through Time, Tim will be arriving at The New Theatre, Oxford on June 5 for an evening of comedy where quantity takes precedence.

Since winning the Perrier Newcomer award at the Fringe back in 1995, the former world record holder for most jokes told in an hour has gone on to perform numerous sell-out tours and festivals in the UK and beyond.

On the back of these shows he has released five stand up DVDs including Punslinger, Jokeamotive and Tim Timinee Tim Timinee Tim Tim To You, and his vast wealth of material has been preserved in books such as The Biggest Ever Tim Vine Joke Book and The Tim Vine Bumper Book Of

Besides stand-up, Vine has had acting success with Not Going Out, The Sketch Show and Blandings on television, and he wrote, directed and performed in the feature film Fearmoth which premiered at the Brighton Film Festival in November 2017.

He also presented gameshows like Whittle, Fluke and Don't Blow The Inheritance, was a finalist in Let's Dance For Comic Relief 2013, and won Sport Relief's Let's Play Darts.

Providing support is the comedy magician John Archer.

Out About Competition

WIN tickets to The Classic & Sports Car Show in association with Flywheel

On 23-24 June, a fantastic collection of world-class classic competition cars, road cars and bikes – some over a century old – along with an impressive collection of military machines and vintage planes will descend on Bicester Heritage for The Classic & Sports Car Show in association with Flywheel. And you could win tickets for you and your family as we have two family passes up for grabs!

The spectacular event will play host to incredible live demonstrations both on the ground and in the air at the historic site, while the Show's Vintage Village will feature period fairground rides, live music performances, shopping and a huge range of food stalls.

Automobile lovers will delight at the spectacle from the finest that the classic car world has to offer, taking to the demo track to show off in glorious tyre-squealing style. Classic motor clubs will stage displays and the open-access paddock lets visitors get up close to these magnificent machines, while there will also be an impressive collection of historic military vehicles on display, and even passenger rides in the live-action tank arena!

To enter this competition and more like it, go online to www.oxfordshireguardian.co.uk

Moving from the ground to the skies, preserv

Closing date: Thursday, June 14, 2018

there will be fantastic air displays of historic aircraft, including daily air displays from the Royal Air Force Battle of Britain Memorial Flight (BBMF) Dakota, the Bremont Great War Display Team and the magnificent trio that is the BBMF Spitfire, Hurricane and Lancaster.

The Bremont Great War Display will stage an exhilarating recreation of a WW1 'dogfight', with aircraft such as Sopwith and Fokker Dr1 triplanes showing just how nimble these early warbirds were. Also taking to the skies will be top display pilot and former British Female Aerobatic Champion Lauren Wilson, who will give a thrilling demonstration of the agility of her glorious, bright red Pitts Special aerobatic biplane.

Film buffs are also in for a treat as they'll be able to see filming spots that have been used for box office hits The Imitation Game and The Darkest Hour at Bicester Heritage, the UK's best preserved Second World War Bomber Station.

For your chance to win one of two family tickets to The Classic & Sports Car Show in association with Flywheel just answer the following simple question:

Q: What plane will Lauren Wilson be flying in her display?

A family ticket admits two adults and up to three children (aged 5-15), entry for children under five years is free, parking is also free.

Tickets for The Classic & Sports Car Show in association with Flywheel are on sale with advance tickets starting from £23 per adult, £10 per child (5-15) and £55 per family. Entry for children under the age of five years is free, as is parking. VIP package upgrades are also available, which include parking and hospitality.

Bloodline Wills

Does this sound familiar to you?

"We've made our Wills, leaving everything to each other first and then to the children."

These are known as Mirror Wills. Sounds reassuring enough, doesn't it? But your children could end up with very little - or even nothing at all.

Dear Reader,

Where children's inheritance is concerned our clients want certainty. They want to know that their children will one day benefit from all their years of hard work. They usually come to us having already made standard Mirror Wills with another firm. But often doubts remain in their mind.

Modern family life has many twists and turns and clients worry that having left their estate directly to their children in their Will, what would happen if their son had relationship difficulties or their daughter had creditors pressing. Would their inheritance be taken away from them?

April King Legal are specialists in new style Bloodline Wills. Our free information pack shows you how we can update your Will to include bloodline protection for your children and grandchildren.

fantastic Our multi-disciplinary team, made up of At Sobell House we occupational therapists, physiotherapists, psychiatrist and a range of art therapists, works and together to ensure mental health matters patients have the tools to us. Our priority is as well as the physical on enabling patients to aids that they need retain their mobility and to help make many independence for as of the small everyday for granted that much our more possible. Tasks such as putting on slippers; walking to the end of the garden; going to the toilet on one's own; turning in bed; all these tasks can become overwhelming if people are not equipped to carry them safely. We see that this greater feeling of independence and control has a direct positive impact on the patients' mental health.

The majority of the people who support Sobell House have had a connection with the This hospice. We find that supported many chose physical exercise such as walking and running as their way of showing their gratitude for the services that we provided for a loved one.

Has the Government gone too far? Is it worthwhile being a landlord?

Bill Cooper, co-author of The Oxford Property Blog and managing director of Martin and Co, Oxford

This question is at the heart of matter for landlords as taxation policy and general regulations are tightening in response to the growth in the number of UK citizens renting their homes from private landlords.

Since the financial crisis in 2008, buy to let has been seen as a lowrisk alternative to savings or stock market investments. Oxford's landlords have done particularly well, benefitting from strong annual rent inflation and strong capital appreciation.

Data from Kent Reliance shows that over the course of a 25-year investment, a basic tax paying landlord, placing a typical 30% deposit of £73,908 on a property, will generate a total profit of £265,500 after all costs and taxes taking into account the Government's changes

Once the impact of inflation over the period is factored-in, this represents a profit of £162,000 in today's money, or £6,475 annually.

If buy to let returns look set to continue being attractive, why are landlords leaving the market, selling their assets and investing elsewhere? According to Hamptons, the number of properties available for private rental has fallen by 5% over the last 2 years in the South of England that's 82,000 fewer rental homes. That at a time when demand for rented accommodation has never been higher, and when it is predicted that over 17million UK citizens will depend on good quality rented homes being available to them.

So, has the government gone too far?

That question is not straightforward to answer. Based purely on the economic argument, the figures above from Kent Reliance show that buy to let will continue to be viable financially. Evidence from Scotland (where a tenant fee ban has been in place for several years), suggests that the ban of tenant fees in England will increase costs for landlords initially, but thereafter rents will rise above their historic trend rate. If the supply of private rented homes is already reducing as Hamptons assert, then the rate of rent inflation could be even higher in England than that seen in Scotland.

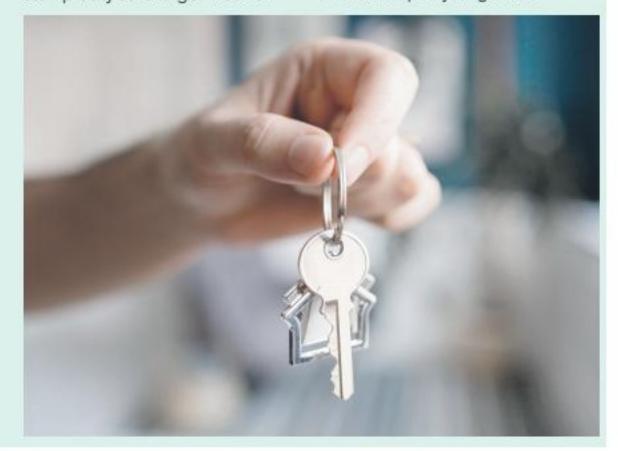

Being a landlord is a business. Just as companies owe a duty of care to its employees, landlords owe a duty of care to their tenants. And, just as businesses budget their costs to optimise profits, so should landlords should budget a proportion of their gross income for reinvestment to maintain their assets.

Some changes being introduced by Government are both considered and necessary e.g. the improvement of minimum standards in the areas of gas, electrical and fire safety, the licencing of houses in multiple occupation; tightening of mortgage assessment processes and level of rental to repayment cover to protect landlords as interest rates rise. However, other changes are pure politics, and seem certain to have unwanted consequences e.g. the ban of fees charged to tenants, and the stamp duty surcharge. Both of these risk reducing the supply of private rented properties at a time when cities like Oxford already have a shortage.

As things stand: Has the Government gone too far? Yes. Is it still worthwhile being a landlord? Yes, provided you recognise that you are running a business and are prepared to devote the time to running that business properly.

The Little Welly Obstacle Course & Festival Hits Henley-on-Thames!

Bigger, better & muddier than ever before, the UK's biggest children's obstacle course - The Little Welly returns to Greenlands in Henley-on-Thames on the weekend of June 9th & 10th.

Local estate agents Davis Tate are pleased to be supporting the event again this year with signage, advertising and local promotion and will be sponsoring the pod area on the day as well as having their own competitors taking part!

With 30 big obstacles over a 3km course, some of which are new, kids will have the time of their life as they run.

jump, climb, swing, slide and crawl through the wildly popular outdoor adventure series amongst the unspoilt rural surroundings of this beautiful estate.

This one of a kind experience has been designed for children aged four & over and parents and carers are welcome to join in all the fun whatever the weather, in fact the wetter, the muddier, the better as far as the children are concerned!

After scaling the towering heights of The Web Frame, conquering the looming Dark Crawl, splashing through the Mud & Water Pits, braving the NEW Spider Tunnel, fearlessly facing the Three Hump Dragon, giving it all for THE Wall, bouncing around in the Foam Pit and balancing on the Long Pole Run, (just a selection of some of the obstacles)! every child can proudly collect their shiny medal and enjoy all the other fun activities on site.

The fantastic Festival Village has something for all the family to enjoy: Laser Tag, Zorbing, Helter Skelter, Climbing Wall, Whacky Wheelers, pony rides, den building, football darts, toddler course & Bungee trampolining. The huge stage will host live music & entertainment throughout the whole weekend. Zoe's Waffles,

Time For Tea, Soleluna Pizzas, The Flying Bean Cafe, Vegan & Vegetarian Burgers from Freshbox, Lovibonds

and the Prosecco Van will ensure nobody goes hungry or thirsty!

There is something for everyone!
"My kids both absolutely loved yesterday at Henley-On-Thames, we all had an amazing time as a family, haven't had that much fun in a long time - great for all the family young and old.

when else can you encourage your kids to get stuck in and get completely covered in mud from head to toe?!" A brilliant day out for all the family whatever the weather! Child Course & Festival Ticket £19.50

Volkswagen Take UP! 1.0 litre 60PS – 5 door

You'll want to Take UP! one of these

By Tony Yates

The VW UP! is a great little car for doing the school run and for all those times when you need to nip into town happen. to do a little retail therapy. Or, if you're like me, then you will be the local taxi expect it to be slow right? Well, actuinto town because it's the only family vehicle that's really capable of fitting inside those tight city centre parking spaces.

Power & efficiency

The version I had on test was a 5 door Take UP! which was fitted with a 3 cylinder 999cc 60PS petrol engine and is still one of the best units I have come across in my opinion. Yes, I know pretty much every manufacturer now has a 3 cylinder engine available in their range, but I still think the VW unit is the better one by a mile.

to achieve 60mpg as long as I didn't drive it like I stole it. Of course, I could tell you that the UP! will max out at 101mph, but to be honest, it wasn't built for speed, so you are probably not that interested. But, if you do fancy a race from 0-62, then expect to be waiting around for about14.4sec for that to

So, with its 999cc engine, you'd ally it nips around the city in a rush and it doesn't really feel underpowered at all truth be told. Plus I recently had to take my children on a weekend camping trip to Ross-on-Wye (why the sun was finally out) meaning it was full to bursting with all our camping gear, but still - the little UP! just kept on going.

On the road

The little UP! is a scream - it's easy to drive and feels brilliant for such a small car. I own a Fiat 500 and I have to say that the little UP! Is as good Out on the open road I managed as the little Fiat - if not that little bit better out on the road, because it's less 'bouncy'. Remember though, this is not a hot hatch; it's an eco-warrior that was designed to save you money as well as being stylish. As for the handling, I decided I would give it four out of five stars because it's as good as the competition when the road gets nice and twisty.

Design & technology

The interior is a little on the bland side - but it's functional, and I like the body coloured dash panel and the centre speedo which gives it a better feel on the inside. Although the seats do feel a little deckchair like, then again, they do hold you firm and that's the main thing here.

There's also an array of kit inside such as; DAB radio, electric front windows, 3.1" monochrome screen, SD card reader, halogen clear headlights, LED daytime running lights, power assisted steering, remote central locking, height adjustable three-spoke steering wheel. This list may look a little basic, but remember this was only the Take-UP! specification. If you want to go all out, then I suggest you take a look at the new UP! GTi version which costs less than 14k (3 door version)

When it comes to safety features, the UP! comes equipped with; ABS (Anti-lock Braking System), driver's and front passenger's airbags, side head/thorax airbag system for front passengers, ESC (Electronic Stability Control) including Hill Hold function.

To sum up

There is no doubt in my mind that VW UP! will live with you for a very long time and you will instantly replace it with another when the time is right. To be honest it's like your secret little friend that will make you feel happy every time you turn the key.

Priced from £9,725.

THROUGH THE IMPOSSIBLE WE FIND POSSIBILITIES

LIKE THE PRICE, NOW IMPOSSIBLY GOOD

At Honda, we love to rise to a challenge. When somebody said buying a new car will always be expensive, we wanted to prove them wrong. That's why the new Jazz only costs from £199 a month, and why it comes with 5.9% APR Representative, a £1,000 Deposit Contribution and 5 years' servicing for just £599. Now it's impossible to find a reason not to at least take it for a spin.

Test it out for yourself.

5.9% APR Representative, £1,000 Deposit Contribution and 5 years' servicing for just £599.

Grosjean's misery continues

By George Welch

F1 - Haas

ROMAIN Grosjean has been handed a three-place grid penalty for triggering an opening-lap crash which took him and two other drivers out of the Spanish GP.

The Haas driver lost his car midpack at turn three, span back across the track in a cloud of tyre smoke and collected the cars of Renault's Nico Hulkenberg and Toro Rosso's Pierre Gasly.

All walked away from the accident unharmed, but each saw their race end before it ever really began, as Grosjean, who qualified in the top-10, was credited with an 18th-place finish.

The Barcelona stewards deemed Grosjean made the wrong decision to try and correct his spin on track and handed him the three-place grid demotion for the race in Monaco later this month.

The Frenchman has struggled so far this Formula 1 season for the Banbury prepared side and is one of two drivers without a point.

A dejected Grosjean said afterwards: "There's not much to say. I lost the rear end in turn three and I just spun. If you look at the footage, I had wanted to avoid contact with my team-mate.

"Kevin [Magnussen] had a bit of a wobble, I lifted off the throttle, and then the car just went.

"I'm sorry for the others that were involved - there wasn't much I could do once the car went."

He added: "I had wanted a steady race, but that wasn't today."

Team-mate Magnussen is 'showing up' Grosjean, according to former Renault driver Jolyon Palmer.

The Dane fared much better in Barcelona, taking his car home in sixth behind the top-five of Mercedes, Ferrari and Red Bull.

He said: "I had a really good start. I was alongside the Red Bulls, but I didn't really want to fight them as I knew they were much faster.

"My job was to stay in seventh and settle down from there.

"I was able to defend well, keep out of trouble on the first lap, so I was happy."

World champion and Mercedes driver Lewis Hamilton claimed victory in Spain.

Round six of the season is the Monaco GP on May 27.

Eighth defeat in nine for U's

OUFC women

THE season end cannot come quick enough for Oxford United Women after losing their eighth game in nine with a 2-1 defeat at home to basement club Watford Ladies.

To compound United's misery, the away side's win was their first of the Yet struggling Oxford started well, taking the lead at Court Place Farm after 15 minutes.

The breakthrough in United's final home game of the season came when Ellie Noble's fierce strike cannoned off the crossbar before hitting the Hornets' goalkeeper and crossing the line.

But that was as good as it got for Oxford, who were pegged back just two minutes later, the experienced Helen Ward beating Demi Lambourne with a well-placed effort from just outside the box.

The chances came thick and fast in the second half and it was Watford who got the all-important goal just after the hour mark.

Simona Petkova converted a Ward cross from the right for the winner.

United had their chances to snatch a point - Chloe Chivers and Georgia Timms both went close - but the Watford players put their bodies on the line to secure their first win of the season.

Oxford end their WSL2 season at champions Doncaster Rovers Belles on Sunday.

The Russian started from 19th on the grid after being hit by a threeplace penalty carried over from Baku.

He threaded his way through the wreckage of Romain Grosjean's opening-lap shunt when he became uncomfortable.

"It's been a very tough day," he said. "I had a good start and I was right

Meanwhile, Nico Hulkenberg's race was over almost as quick as it began as the Renault driver was wiped out in the carnage of the first lap pile up. But Carlos Sainz was in the points for the Enstone prepared side, the Spaniard keeping the home fans happy with a seventh place finish.

Impressive final round shoots Eddie up leaderboard

Golf

EDDIE Pepperell heads into the PGA Championship later this month in confident mood after finishing tied 14th at the Rocco Forte Open in Sicily.

The Abingdon golfer carded a fantastic five-under par final round to finish eight-under in Verdura.

The Frilford Heath member got off to an inauspicious start with a oneover par 72 in the first round.

Pepperell improved over the following couple of days to score successive rounds of two-under par and lift him to 28th place.

And the 27-year-old flew further up the leaderboard following his memorable final day.

It did not start well for Pepperell, dropping a shot at the par-five second, but he was only heading in one direction afterwards.

Birdies at the third, fourth, eighth and ninth followed as he moved to sixunder. He picked up further shots at the 10th and 12th on his way to one of the lowest rounds of the day and his second top-20 finish of the year.

Sweden's Joakim Lagergren edged victory after beating Frenchman Mike Lorenzo-Vera in a play-off.

Pepperell is not in action at this week's Belgian Knockout in Antwerp but his impressive latest performance in Sicily is timely ahead of the esteemed PGA Championship at Wentworth on May 24.

Promising: Eddie Pepperell hit fiveunder in his final round

Whitehead to hang up boots

Football

FORMER Oxford United midfielder Dean Whitehead will retire this summer.

The Abingdon-born star played more than 100 games for the U's between 1999 and 2004, before joining Sunderland.

Now at Huddersfield, who secured their Premier League status this season by four points, Whitehead will become part of David Wagner's backroom team before taking charge of their Under-17 side in January.

The 36-year-old has played more than 600 matches for five professional clubs including Stoke City and Middlesbrough.

The former Sunderland skipper, who played for Abingdon Town as a youngster, came on for the last three minutes in the Terriers' 1-0 defeat to Arsenal on Sunday.

Announcing his decision on Twitter before the season finale, he said: "The day has come that I always feared. After the Arsenal game I will be hanging up my boots.

"I have played at some fantastic clubs over my career and am proud of all my achievements."

He added: "New challenges lay ahead and I'm excited for the next chapter in my career.

"Thanks to everyone who believed in me and most importantly the fans, who have been with me through the highs and lows of my career."

Oxford United 2017/18 season: August – December

Early potential for experimental side as Pep settles in

THE deadwood has been given the boot and the pre-season fixtures have been pencilled in the diary.

And that's just as well for Oxford United fans, who will be in a rush to put the 2017/18 season at the back of their minds.

Following a summer of disruption, the inexperienced Pep Clotet was charged with steadying the ship of a side who had lost the popular Michael Appleton from the hotseat as well as a handful of star players.

The plan was to build on the success of the previous year which included a play-off charge following promotion. But nothing's that simple.

Between August and May, the U's teased their fans as they flirted with the play-offs before dragging them into a relegation battle and a laughable 59-day managerial hunt.

There was no cup run of previous years, but there was at least a positive start, a takeover and saviour Karl Robinson rescued them from the drop.

Here, George Welch starts a review of the season with a look back at 2017

September - Rough patch: Erhun Oztumer, known as the Turkish Messi, gives Walsall the lead on the way to the West Midlanders' 2-1 win at the Kassam. It is the middle game in three match losing streak for Oxford October – Turning point: Curtis Nelson stabs home United's third and final goal in the draw with Rotherham United. United scoop eight points from five matches to move within a couple of points of the play-offs.

August

OXFORD had impressed under Michael Appleton the previous year, with many players catching the eyes of teams higher up the league ladder.

Skipper John Lundstram (Sheffield United), influential winger Marvin Johnson (Middlesbrough), towering defender Chey Dunkley (Wigan Athletic) and 2016/17 top scorer Chris Maguire (Bury) all moved on.

This gave Clotet a mini rebuilding job so, utilising his European contacts, in came a cohort of 'Pep Clotet' players that represented relics and memories of the Spaniard's coaching career.

In came the Malmo class of 2010, consisting Ricardinho, Ivo Pekalski and Agon Mehmeti, while Xemi, Dwight Tiendalli and Gino van Kessel swelled the overseas contingent.

Jon Obika, Mike Williamson, Scott Shearer, John Mousinho and James Henry were added to the Oxford ranks and Jack Payne and Alex Mowatt joined on loan.

The uninspiring recruitment record contributed to the former Swansea City and Leeds United assistant's departure in the new year.

However, the Pep era got off to the perfect start with the club's first ever victory at Oldham Athletic in the opening game of the season.

Wes Thomas netted a debut goal that day and the striker was on target again in the 3-0 dismantling of Portsmouth in the first league game, sending the U's top of the table.

Defeat at Scunthorpe United and a draw at Shrewsbury Town weren't the end of the world, especially given they both made the play-offs.

Seventh in League One at the end of August, United kicked off their Checkatrade Trophy with an emphatic 6-2 victory at Stevenage as youngster Shandon Baptiste made his senior debut.

The Carabao Cup campaign was short-lived however, losing 4-3 at home to League Two's Cheltenham Town in extra time.

August - Introduction: Gino van Kessel scores a debut goal in the 3-0 home win against Portsmouth. Oxford United go top of the table after two games

November - Too little, too late: Jack Payne pulls a goal back for United against Blackburn Rovers. 3-0 down after 22 minutes, the U's lose 4-2. Pressure on Pep Clotet mounts

September

THE first rough patch of the campaign came in the second month of the season with three successive defeats.

A 3-0 crushing of Gillingham sandwiched by draws with Milton Keynes Dons (A) and Bradford City (A) meant the Yellows started September brightly and on the tail of the early-season pacesetters.

There was some breathtaking football at this point.

But United proved fragile as they lost against Blackpool (A), Walsall (H) and Bury (A) in quick succession to plummet down the table.

The inconsistent performances of Clotet's side were epitomised by the 4-1 win at Peterborough United that followed.

A goal down at half time, a rejuvenated Oxford bounced back in the second half to blow their hosts away. Agon Mehmeti netted the final goal – and his only goal for the club – in what was one of the small number of highlights under Clotet.

October

THE Posh turnaround seemed a turning point.

Back-to-back league wins followed against AFC Wimbledon (H) and rivals Bristol Rovers (A) before respectable points were collected in home games against Karl Robinson's Charlton Athletic and Rotherham United, both finishing the campaign in the top-six.

Two goals in the final couple of minutes saw United lose 2-0 at Fleetwood Town at the end of the month, preventing an unbeaten October – and probably a manager of the month nomination for Clotet.

Oxford also drew 2-2 with Brighton and Hove Albion's academy side in the Checkatrade Trophy at the start of the month, picking up a point after losing on penalties.

Setbacks were expected but, while United were two points off the playoffs heading into November, the best performances came before Halloween.

All pictures: Steve Daniels

Youngster Owen James signed a professional contract while fellow local lad Josh Ruffels signed a new three-year deal.

Thai businessman Sumrith Thanakarnjanasuth, who would complete his takeover of the club in January, was once again spotted at the Kassam.

November

2016's penultimate month began with the return of the excitement of the FA Cup, a competition in which United had thrived – and benefitted financially from – in the previous two

But, while city rivals Oxford City made history in the world famous cup competition, United crashed and burned to lowly opposition at the very first hurdle.

A lethargic United, who reached the fifth round last season, failed to register a shot on target as they limped to a 2-0 first round loss at League Two Port Vale.

It was little consolation that they qualified for the knockout stages of the Checkatrade Trophy four days later, despite a 4-3 home defeat to MK Dons.

Clotet called on his players to reignite their early-season performances to end his side's losing habit after a 2-1 defeat at home to in-form Northampton Town – a fourth successive defeat in all competitions.

Form heading into the winter was patchy, but not disastrous.

A 4-0 win at 10-man Plymouth calmed the nerves before they found themselves 3-0 down in 22 minutes against Blackburn Rovers (H).

They lost 4-2 that day and, while the month was rounded off with a 1-1 draw at Southend United, the exciting football of the opening weeks was steadily fading away.

In the treatment room, captain Curtis Nelson, stretchered off against Northampton Town, was ruled out for the season with an Achilles injury.

The defender returned in some huge games towards the end of the season and the club certainly missed the influential leader in between.

Fellow defender Christian Ribeiro wasn't as lucky however after a knee problem forced the right back to hang up his boots aged just 27.

December

THE festive month began with a win, albeit in the Checkatrade Trophy, but serious questions were now being asked of Clotet's ability to get his ideas across to his team which, at best, could be described as inconsistent.

United ground out four points against Doncaster Rovers (H) and Rochdale (A) before they blindly walked into a crushing defeat at the hands of Wigan Athletic.

The 7-0 loss was the turning point of the season – a very unwelcome Christmas gift just two days before the festivities. Losing so heavily at home is bad enough but it was also the manner of the record-breaking defeat that irked U's fans.

The Latics were sublime but the hosts were complicit in a game in which the manager started Xemi, who later had his contract terminated, but left star players Ryan Ledson and Joe Rothwell on the bench.

A lack of a damage-limiting plan B was exacerbated when Clotet bizarrely defended his players in his post-match interview.

A draw and a defeat at Gillingham and Bradford City respectively between Christmas and New Year did little to boost confidence as Clotet sleepwalked into 2018 on thin ice.

With no Christmas miracle, Oxford slumped and finished 2017 in 12th place, nine points off the play-offs. They were a place lower but seven points off the top-six at the same stage the previous year.

Next week – twists and turns as United's season played out in 2018

Budget cuts force changes for City

OXFORD City boss Mark Jones has already started making changes to his squad after being handed a reduced budget for the next campaign.

The dust has barely settled on the 2017/18 season but skipper Lee Henderson and the influential Godfrey Poku are among those whose futures lie elsewhere.

Freddie Grant, Ezra Forde, Mamadou Fofana and Justin Bennett have also been released from the National League South club.

Craig King, Eddie Jones, Udoka Godwin Malife, Reece Fleet, Zac McEachran, Connor Stevens and top scorer Matt Paterson have been offered fresh terms.

Joe Oastler and Rob Sinclair will remain with the club having signed two-year deals when they joined the Hoops last summer.

Jones admitted making the decision to cut players for next year was 'extremely tough'.

The manager, who steered City to safety as well as a history-making FA Cup run, made Henderson his captain when he was promoted as manager. However, like Bennett, injuries scuppered their campaigns and the club felt they could not offer them longer deals.

Similarly, Fofana and Ezra were only peripheral figures and have been cut from the wage bill.

Grant said he needed a new challenge and was reluctant to commit to the club.

City's midfield mountain Poku is based in London and looks set to sign for a team in the capital.

Speaking shortly after announcing the departures, Jones said: "I'd like to sincerely thank all of the players that have left the club.

"It's never easy to say goodbye to people that you have worked closely with and that have contributed so well to the team over a period of time."

He added: "I do also have to make savings, working with a reduced budget next season and need to build a balanced squad, so difficult decisions have to be made. These decisions aren't easy ones, but as always I try to make them with the best interest of the club and team at heart."

League's sticky situation

DIDCOT Town have launched an appeal after the FA 'made a mistake' and placed them in the 'wrong' division.

Following a major restructuring of steps three and four of the non-league system, the Railwaymen have been placed in the Evo-Stik South West division, the league in which they finished in the play-offs in the season just gone.

As part of the overhaul, fellow Oxfordshire sides Kidlington and North Leigh have been shifted to the East division to join Thame United.

However, much to Diddy's frustration, they have been left behind while Gloucestershire-based Cinderford Town remain in the East division.

A statement from Didcot Town read: "After the announcement of the 2018/19 league constitution, we can confirm that Didcot Town FC have appealed the decision to remain in the West division.

"After reviewing the league setup for next season, it's clear that ourselves and Cinderford have been placed in the wrong leagues and the easy resolution is to swap both clubs which would reduce significant mileage for the two clubs.

"The FA have confirmed receipt of the appeal and we await to hear their response."

Cinderford have not officially commented but poked fun at the FA's decision by retweeting comments on Twitter.

Meanwhile, Banbury United will play in the south section of the newlook Premier Division.

The structure of the Hellenic Premier League, step five, has not been confirmed.

The ninth tier of English football includes Wantage Town, Abingdon United, Oxford City Nomads and, for next season, Ardley United.

Ox-Rail test to explore possible safe standing

By George Welch

OXFORD United are looking into the possibility of introducing safe standing at the Kassam Stadium.

The League One club has been investigating whether they can install a safety rail in sections of the East (home) and North (away) stands.

United said that, while there is no timescale on the scheme at the moment, their 'Ox-Rail' would be a 'ground-breaking concept'.

The sections would remain as seated areas but the introduction of an additional safety control measure would prevent the risk of a progressive crowd collapse by supporters who have chosen to persistently stand.

The club said an 'overwhelming majority' of the Oxford United Safety Advisory Group members, including representatives of the emergency services, supported the scheme.

Ian Mixter, head of crowd safety at the U's, said: "Although a time frame cannot be placed on completion of the project, the next stage will see the installation of a test build of an Ox-Rail, in front of a single row of seats in the East Stand, to allow the safety barrier to undergo rigorous testing.

"The safety of spectators, both home and away, is paramount and the club is committed to ensuring that this groundbreaking concept complies with the safety standards required by the regulating authorities."

There will be consultation with supporters, including OxVox and season ticket holders, to ensure that Ox-Rail is safe enough when installed.

Discussions are also ongoing with the Sports Ground Safety Authority to allow the concept to continue within the stadium should the club be promoted to the Championship.

Managing director Niall McWilliams added: "We would love to see Ox-Rails at the stadium and will continue to work with all relevant parties to try and make this happen."

More than 110,000 people signed a petition earlier this year asking for Premier League and Championship clubs to be allowed to have safe standing at their stadia.

Sports minister Tracey Crouch said football fans 'have evolved' since allseater stadia were introduced, when she was quizzed by MPs on safestanding earlier this month.

■ Oxford United will be heading to Ireland for their pre-season tour, which will include intensive training and three matches.

The dates for the diary are: Monday, July 9 – Portmarnock AFC; Tuesday, July 10 – Longford Town; Wednesday, July 11 – UCD

Oxford United's pre-season continues to take shape with the announcement of a 'double-header' on Saturday, July 14.

The U's will play two games that day – the day before the World Cup final – playing away at neighbours Oxford City and then away at Hampton and Richmond Borough the same afternoon. The first team will be split in two.

New training site shaping up for next season

WORK is well under way as Oxford United's new training complex takes shape.

United formally moved out of their previous training base at the Oxford Sports and Social Club last week.

Equipment has been moved out of the buildings and into storage for the summer as the club prepares to move a few hundred yards further along Horspath Road to a £4.9million sports park.

The bulldozers moved in to flatten the old site and prepare it for an expansion of the BMW MINI factory last week.

When the first team report back next month they will do so where a fantastic new training complex is taking shape.

It will feature six pitches plus a 3G pitch and will be home to the first team, youth team, Under-23 side and academy programme.

Alongside the pitches will be new changing rooms, a gym, kitchens, dining room, laundry and storage facilities as well as offices and video analysis suites.

The scholars will have new, larger classrooms, there will be treatment rooms, interview rooms for the media, meeting rooms and storage facilities for the maintenance crew.

Eastwood: new deal

THE U's confirmed goalkeeper Simon Eastwood had extended his contract.

The shot stopper had been linked with a move to the Championship after an impressive two years at the Kassam.

But the 28-year-old has now quashed those rumours by signing a new three-year deal.

Boss Karl Robinson described the former Blackburn Rovers man as the 'best goalkeeper in the league'.
